Course-Source Expands Sales Team

E-learning specialists Course-Source are expanding their sales team with the appointment of Steve Goodwin.

Goodwin has worked in the e-learning sector for the last five years, in particular in selling and delivering collaboration software to higher and further educational institutions. He worked previously as Operations and Marketing Manager with Connected Learning, before joining Wimba in 2005.

“I believe my experience growing Wimba in both the UK and international markets and my knowledge of both sales processes and account management puts me in a good position to drive sales at Course-Source,” said Goodwin on his appointment. “I’m looking forward to working with the Course-Source team.”
